How Notion Should be Viewed

1. Purpose of Document:

This document has been written by Madeline to hopefully streamline the process of using Notion, as well as providing an overview of where to find specific information.

The SWE Project Notion:

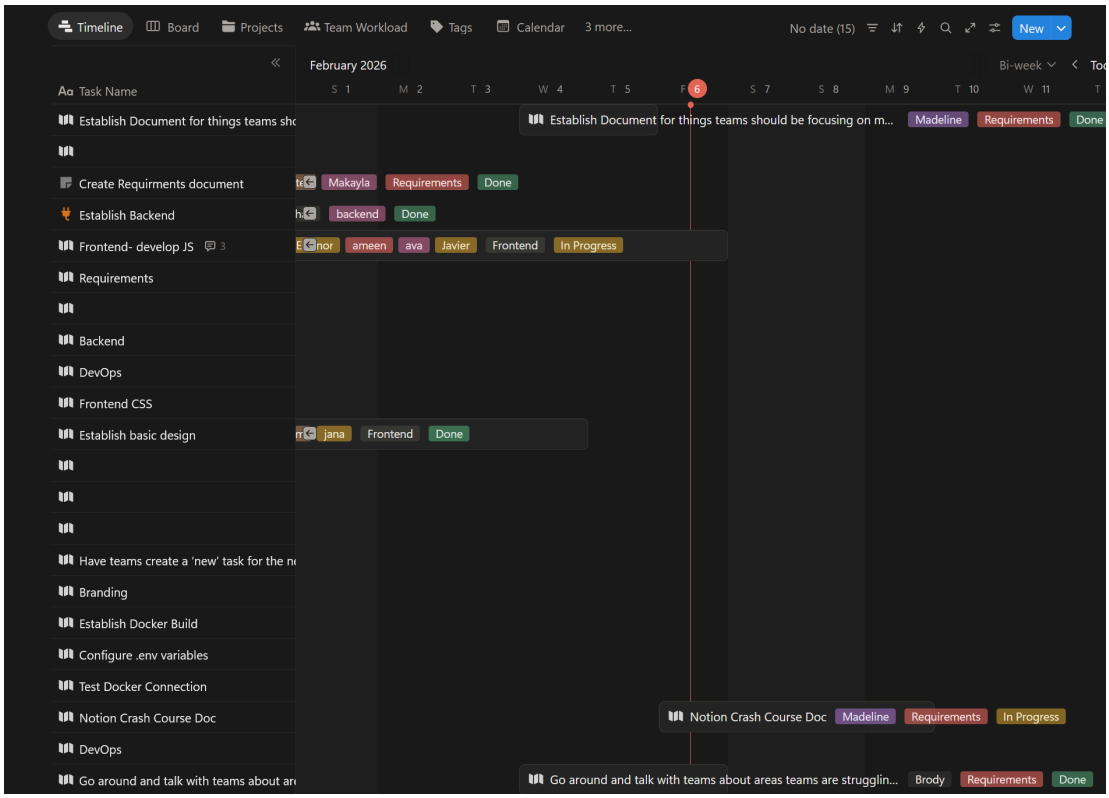
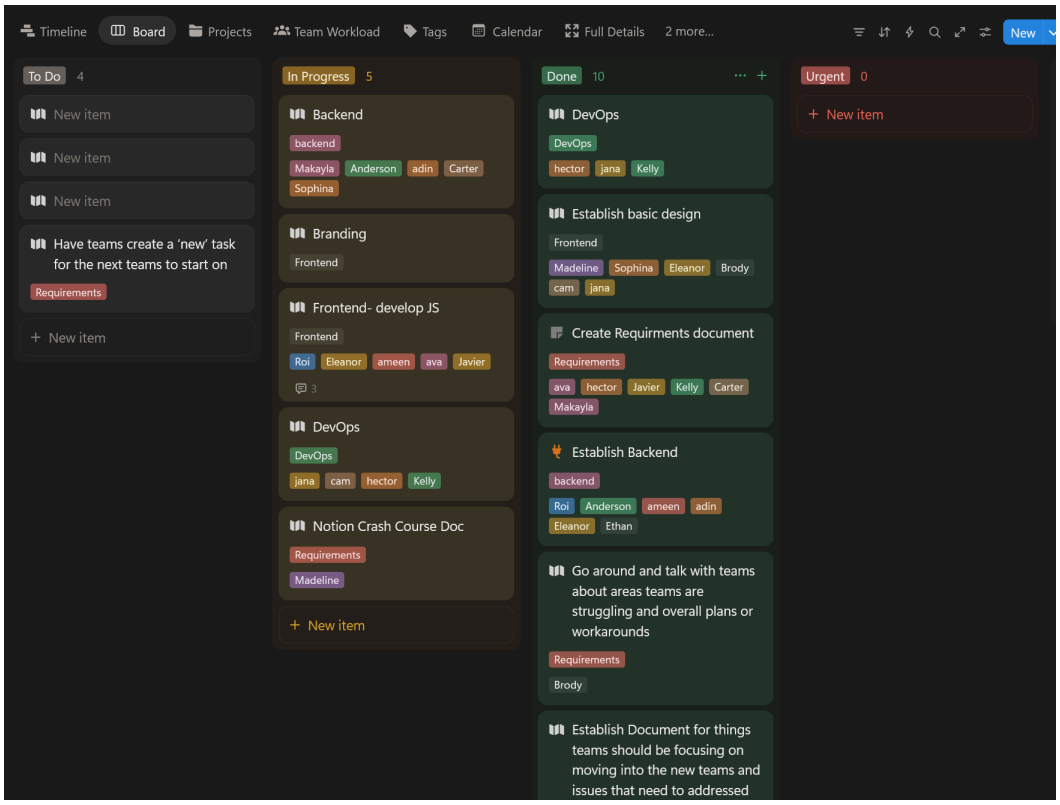
2. The Tabs on Notion

2.1. Timeline



- The 'Timeline' tab should be seen as an overview of the project timeline. When dates are assigned to a task, they show up on a horizontal timeline that can be scrolled through and viewed.
- If you look at the top right, underneath the blue 'New' menu, you will see options to change the view (weekly, bi-weekly, monthly, etc) to either compress or expand your calendar view.

2.2. Board



- The 'Board' tab is a quick glance at what tasks have been completed, in progress, to do, etc.
- It automatically sorts tasks when you create them and tag them with the appropriate status

2.3. Projects

- The ‘Projects’ tab sorts tasks by team because of how we have it set up
- As you can see above, it is color coded and sorted appropriately
- Each ‘team’ is an individual ‘project’ at the moment

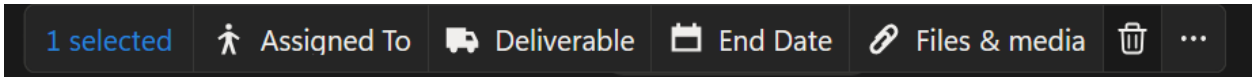
- The Full Details tab is an overview of every single task
- It shows when the tasks are done, days remaining, if there is a deliverable entered, the timeline, etc
    - Scroll to the side!!!!!!
- It also allows for quick rearrangement (click and drag), assignments, etc



- If you select a task, you can pull up a menu to edit it; assignments, deliverable, date, etc
- You can select multiple tasks at once
- DO NOT DELETE SOMETHING YOU DIDN'T MAKE

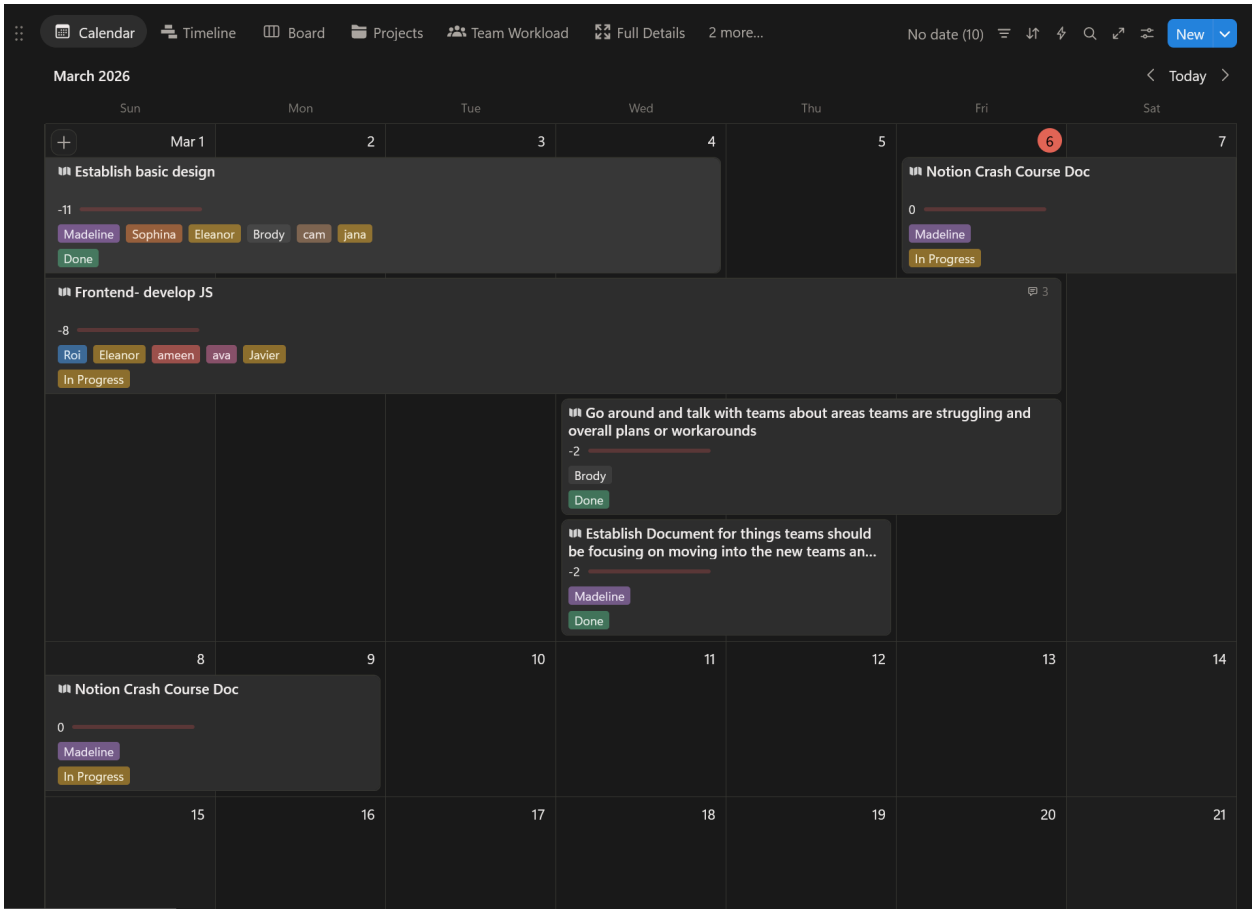
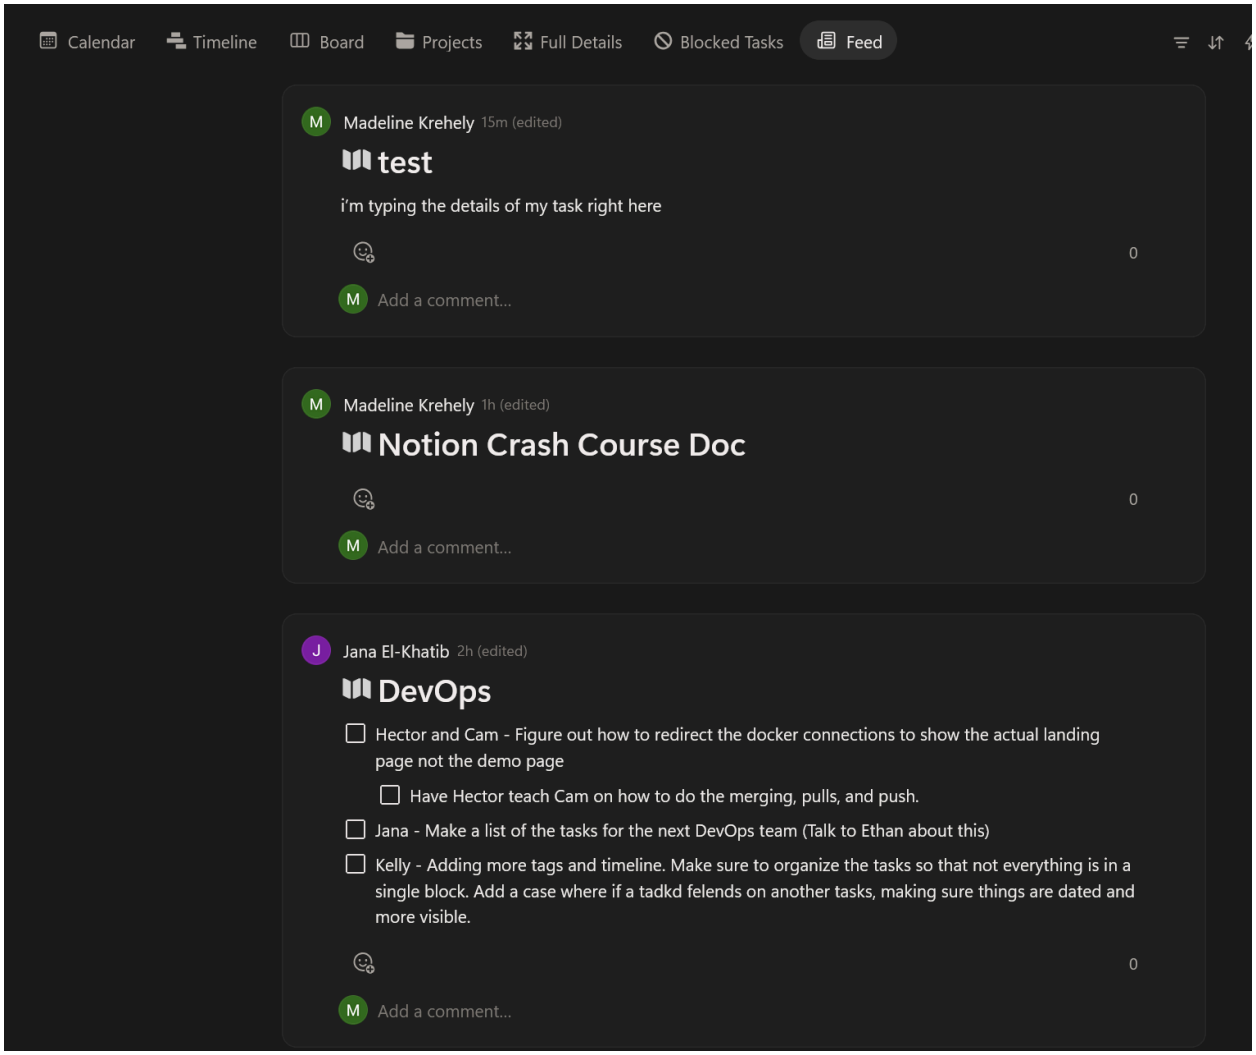
2.5. Calendar



- The 'Calendar' tab, while similar to timeline, is more of an immediate view
- 'Timeline' lists every single task, while 'Calendar' is, well, a calendar. It goes according to dates we enter in tasks
- This can be easier to view due dates, expectations, etc

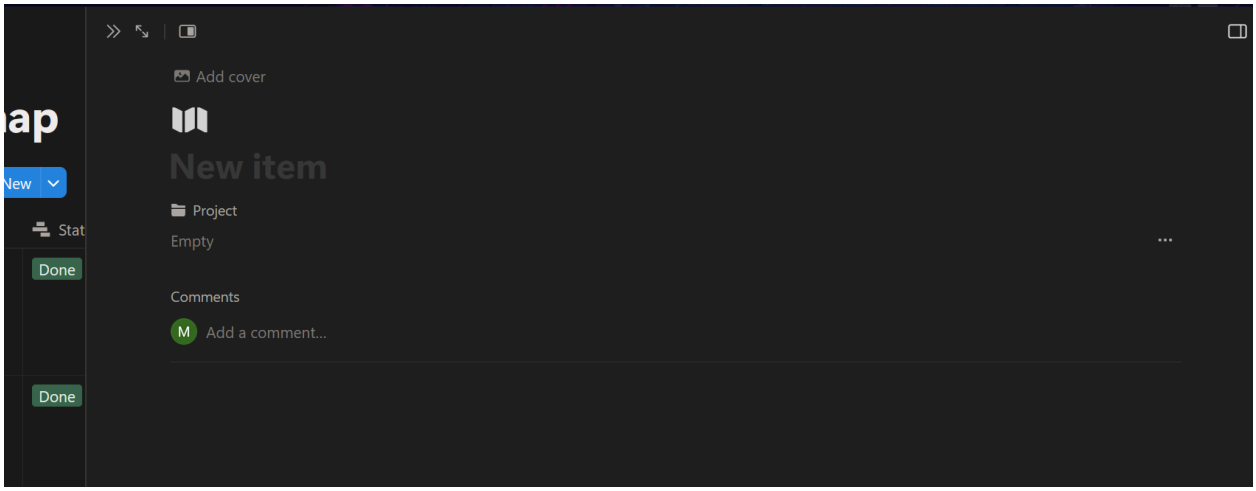
2.6. Feed



- The 'Feed' tab is similar to viewing GitHub commits
- You can see who creates what tasks

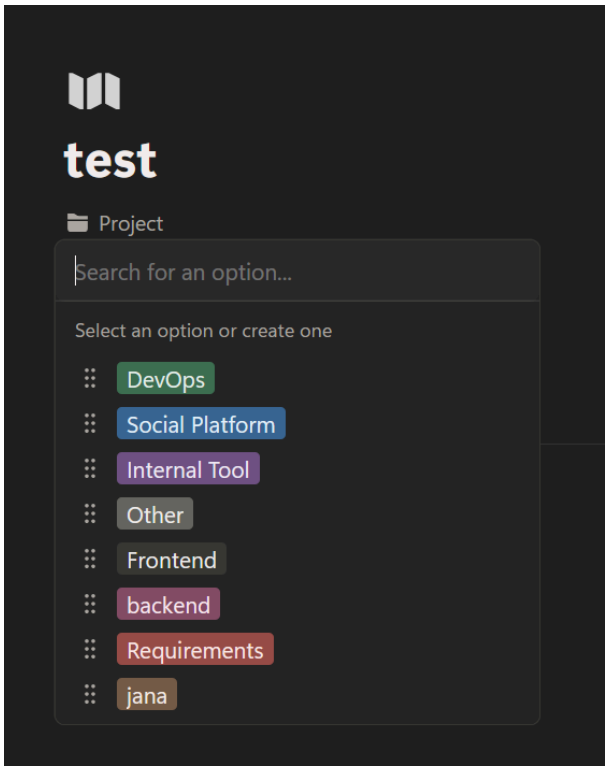
3. How to Make a Task

3.1. Press 'New'



- This should be done for EVERY INDIVIDUAL TASK
- We need to move away from listing every single task in one block; instead, every task needs to be put into a new block
- Say "okay, Madeline has the task of making a document."
- The task should say 'Making document'

3.2. Write the Title of your task, assign it to a 'project'



- MAKE SURE TO DO THIS
- Tag the project with your TEAM
